AFRICAN METHODIST EPISCOPAL ZION CHURCH

To Mrs. Devieta C. Moore, the Missionary Supervisor of the Mid-Atlantic Episcopal District and my partner in both life and ministry; to Presiding Elders Vincent M. Jones, Sr.; Kenneth W. Crowder, and T. Kenneth Venable; to our ministers, General, Connectional, Conference, and District Officers, Lay Leaders, Delegates, and visitors to this the 152nd Session of the Virginia Annual Conference. I greet each of you in the only Name that eternally matters; the Name of Jesus Christ!

INTRODUCTION

This conference year has been both amazing and agonizing. We’ve experienced heights of unbelievable joy and yet, depths of profound grief. Our hearts have rejoiced as we traveled throughout the Episcopal District and witnessed the Lord transform lives, revitalize congregations, bring vision to reality, and restore to health many of our Zion family members. Yet, we’ve also mourned the deaths of some of our most beloved friends, colleagues, and family. The Virginia Conference and the AME Zion Church will always cherish the memory of the Rev. Dr. Kathryn G. Brown. This year truly touched us with the full range of emotions, joy and pain, sunshine and rain. But nevertheless, we persisted!

AMERICA’S ORIGINAL SIN

The 3 evils Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. confronted and condemned - racism, militarism, and poverty, continue to rob this nation of its potential. Racism remains the single most malignant and resilient disease infecting the soul of America. My friend, Jim Wallis has termed it, “America’s original sin.”

A report published in April in the New York Times says there has been no progress for Black Americans on homeownership, unemployment, and incarceration in 50 years. This week, a study done by UCLA, Harvard and Berkeley researchers concluded that young people of color in the United States have dramatically more years stripped from their lives due to police violence than white people. African Americans are incarcerated at more than 5 times the rate of whites.

In twelve states, more than half of the prison populations is black: Alabama, Delaware, Georgia, Illinois, Louisiana, Maryland, Michigan, Mississippi, New Jersey, North Carolina, South Carolina, and Virginia. Maryland, whose prison population is 72% African American, tops the nation.

The imprisonment rate for African American women is twice that of white women.

Nationwide, African American children represent 32% of children who are arrested, 42% of children who are detained, and 52% of children whose cases are judicially waived to criminal court.

These statistics represent real people and are a stark reminder that racial inequality is still a painful reality in America. When you consider that 73 civilians have been killed by police bullets since 2015 and 70 of those 73 were African American men, this is a national disgrace!

Dismantling systemic racism and confronting injustice in our society isn't "extra-credit Christianity." It is central to the Gospel of Jesus Christ. To follow Christ is to follow him into the heart of the world's brokenness armed with the Gospel of grace and liberation that consumes and transforms. The Freedom Church must never suffer from complacency or laryngitis. We must powerfully witness to and work for our Savior who proclaimed;

of the LORD is upon me, for he has anointed me to bring Good News to the poor. He has sent me to proclaim that captives will be released, that the blind will see, that the oppressed will be set free, and that the time of the LORD’s favor has come.” (Luke 4:18-19 NLT)

On April 4th of this year, the fiftieth year since the assassination of the Reverend Dr. Martin Luther King, the National Council of Churches, of which I am privileged to serve as Chair of the Governing Board, launched a multi-year initiative entitled; ACT Now: Uniting to End Racism. Tens of thousands gathered on the National Mall in Washington, DC representing 38 denominations and other faith communities to give a bold and public witness to our shared commitment to work together to do the hard work of truth-telling, confronting racist structures both within the church and throughout society. White privilege is the immoral root of which racism is the poisonous fruit and we must name it and work to eradicate it.

I was deeply moved and greatly inspired by the thousands of members of our AME Zion Church Family who mobilized to join us on the Mall for this historic gathering. The pastors and laity of the Mid-Atlantic Episcopal District led the way in organizing, programing, and hosting the rally.
So, the AME Zion Church has come together to lift our voices and commit our energies to continue the struggle of our founders against racism. We are the heirs of Harriet Tubman and Sojourner Truth, of Frederick Douglass and James Walker Hood, of Julia Foote and Coretta Scott King. We serve notice on:

- Steve Bannon and the white nationalists
- David Duke and the new KKK movements
- Richard Spenser and the neo-Nazis
- Franklin Graham, Jerry Falwell, Jr, and Paula White and the white cultural evangelicals

But we don’t stop there, Paul Ryan, Mitch McConnell and the spineless members of the Republican Party whose continuing complicity has enabled this White House to become the most corrupt, divisive, and destructive administration in American history, we want you to know that The Freedom Church is reporting for duty.

OUR THEME

Our Quadrennial Theme states the following: “The Freedom Church: Refocusing On Our Purpose, Reviewing Our Practices, Retooling Our People,
Reaching Our Potential. This theme is a declaration of our priorities but it is also a call to action. Last year, our emphasis was - recentering on our purpose. In other words, we have to keep the main thing the main thing! Throughout the Mid-Atlantic Episcopal District, we’ve been reminded that our “Mission is the Great Commission,” that we are in the disciple-making business. Using Bishop Robert Schnase’s insightful book; “The Five Practices of Fruitful Congregations,” we outlined the five practices that every congregation should make a priority, including radical hospitality and passionate worship. I applaud those pastors and congregations who are studying and implementing these vital principles in your church.

We are witnessing seeds of vitality and renewal taking root in some of our churches in the Mid-Atlantic Episcopal District; however, I’ve come to the sad recognition that many in our beloved Zion are immobilized by the challenges, much like the paralyzed man that Jesus encountered by the Pool of Bethesda, Let me remind you of the story:

“Soon another Feast came around and Jesus was back in Jerusalem. Near the Sheep Gate in Jerusalem there was a pool, in Hebrew called Bethesda, with five alcoves. Hundreds of sick people—blind, crippled, paralyzed—were in these alcoves. One man had been an invalid there for thirty-eight years. When Jesus saw him stretched out by the pool and knew how long he had been there, he said, “Do you want to get well?”

The sick man said, “Sir, when the water is stirred, I don’t have anybody to put me in the pool. By the time I get there, somebody else is already in.” Jesus said, “Get up, take your bedroll, start walking.” The man was healed on the spot. He picked up his bedroll and walked off. (John 5:1-8 MSG)

Jesus’ question: “Do you want to be healed?” has intrigued preachers, this one included, for years. Who doesn’t want to be healed? But in all the times you've read this passage, have you ever stopped to consider the fact that the man never answered Jesus’ question? He could have said yes or no, but instead he took that opportunity to pour out his sad story of loneliness and disappointment and despair.

Jesus asked Him, “Do you want to be healed?” and he went into a long litany of excuses. Why didn’t he shout out, “Yes, Jesus! I desperately want to be healed!” Had he lost hope? Had he settled down into a kind of negative despair? Or consider this possibility; or was he content in his illness because to be healed would mean he would have to take responsibility to actually do something; in that he would have to begin to make some changes? It’s always easier to complain about what others are not doing than to take responsibility for your own condition.
Just as the Lord asked the question of that man, I ask it of us this afternoon; “Zion, do you want to be healed?” If your first response is to make excuses; we’re in a bad neighborhood, people are moving away, our members are mostly seniors, the church a few blocks away are taking all the young people, and so on, then you will remain invalid.

Something is deeply flawed in us if we look out at our congregations each Sunday and see empty pews and are not disturbed by it; if our churches are failing to connect with youth and young adults and we are not disturbed by it. Something is wrong if we can go week after week conducting Sunday morning worship services and no lives are being transformed in our congregation and in the community.

If the fact that disciples aren’t being made, that our congregations aren’t healthy, that our neighborhoods are in crisis doesn’t disturb you, then I’m curious what does. Do we really want healthy congregations? Do we want ministry that transforms lives? Do we want to reach young people with the Gospel of Christ? Then Jesus is commanding us to “Take up your beds and start moving.”

Transformative leaders understand that whenever something is not working or is out of order in the church, it may not be your fault, but it is your responsibility. Leadership is about possessing the right attitude and ability to respond when faced with a challenge.
I had a school mate when I lived in New York who built remote-controlled model airplanes. He showed me one that he was especially proud of. It would fly several feet in the air and I was impressed. One day he told me that he wanted to show me his new airplane. When he brought it out, I immediately recognized it as the same one he flew the last time. “That’s the same plane,” I said. But he explained that this plane could fly twice as high as the old one. He used the same frame, but he had to retro-fit the engine, the wings, and the flaps so it could reach higher heights.

The AME Zion Church has a strong framework and a rich legacy. We have inherited powerful tools from our foreparents; however, if we are going to reach higher heights, we must review our practices and retro-fit those practices that are no longer effective. Let me suggest a few for our prayerful consideration:

- Do we conduct worship services that create expectancy, that move people to experience a fresh encounter with the Holy Spirit or are we content on our beds of sameness and lameness just going through the motions of worship? Transformative leaders understand that people are searching for worship that is authentic, alive, creative, and enthusiastic.

- Do we help our members to identify their spiritual gifts and align them with ministry in the local church that matches those gifts or are we relying on our beds of appointing people to positions they no longer have a passion for or were never gifted for?

• Do we focus our ministry efforts and church programs outside the church walls extending radical hospitality to the community or are we reclining on our beds of comfort, wondering why people don’t come into our churches rather than us going out to them?

• Do we actually teach our members to be intentionally invitational, to become so excited about their love for Jesus and their church that they invite family, friends, co-workers, and community members to worship with them on a regular basis, or are we laying on beds of stagnation and decline?

Practice What We Preach

Our country and our church is facing a crisis of leadership. The current climate in politics is tragically mirrored in the church. We equate power with arrogance and intimidation and we’ve rejected the teaching of Jesus about servant leadership as weak and timid. How tragic that Christian leaders are behaving more like Caesar than like Christ.
Humility doesn’t demand or expect applause, positions, or recognition. It manifests the love one possesses for GOD and others in acts of service that enrich others. The essence of genuine humility isn’t thinking less of ourselves but thinking of ourselves less. Our culture equates strong leadership with narcissism, huge egos, and treating followers as subjects rather than bearers of the Imago Dei, the image of GOD. Humility recognizes that we are all created in GOD’s image and therefore must treat every person like they matter, because to GOD they do matter.

I frequently hear it said that what we’re doing isn’t working. But could it be that what we’re doing works for why we’re doing it but not for why we should be doing it? If we are simply holding positions for personal recognition or job security maybe what we’re doing works. If we are satisfied just holding meetings and collecting assessments then what we’re doing works at least for the short term. However, if we are committed to lives being transformed and people growing as disciples of Jesus, then something must change.

As Christian leaders we must examine ourselves honestly and continually to ensure that our motives are holy. The Church must review our practices with the goal of remaining focused and faithful to our mission. The church doesn’t just have a mission. The church is mission. Our fundamental being is based on the presumption that we are witnesses to a Christ who is known only through witnesses. To be a witness means you bear the marks of Christ so that your life gives life to others. I can’t imagine Christians who are not fundamentally in mission as constitutive of their very being – because you don’t know who Christ is except by someone else telling you who Christ is. This is the work of the Holy Spirit and the mission of the church. This is the calling upon every Christian.

Our local churches must cultivate ministry programs that produce healthy disciples, not just church members. We must become dynamic communities of believers who are passionate enough about Jesus that we share the Gospel with others.

However, in order for our local churches to be healthy, we need our pastors to be healthy disciples of Jesus. The crisis of leadership in the local church impacts the crisis of leadership in our ministry and the crisis of leadership in our ministry impacts the crisis of leadership in the local church.

To effectively address these concerns, the Mid-Atlantic Episcopal District will commit to engaging in practices that foster healthy ministers and growing churches. As a part of our strategy for attaining these goals, we will:
1. Challenge every Presiding Elder District to plant one new church during the next conference year.

2. Develop a conference Pastoral Care Ministry that offers resources and counseling services to assist pastors and their families to navigate the unique challenges of ministry.

Establish the Dr. Lewis Anthony Ministry Scholars - this program will seek applications from throughout the Mid-Atlantic Episcopal District from ministers forty and under who will receive scholarship assistance, be assigned a ministry mentor, and who will become participants in selected ecumenical events.

CONCLUSION

Zion, Do you want to be healed? Do we still fervently believe that Jesus Christ is the hope for the world? Do we truly believe that the Church as His body is Christ’s instrument to reach and transform the world for Christ? If this is what we believe then it should be visible in how we behave.

The hope of the world is not government, academia, or business, but the hope of the world is Jesus Christ and that message is what only the Church offers. Whether they realize it or not, the world needs the Church! America needs the Church! Our cities and towns need the Church! Our communities need the Church! Our families need the Church! But they need a church that is dynamic and relevant. They need a church and Christians who are passionate about telling the Good News of the love of GOD, the hope in the Resurrected Christ and the power of the Holy Spirit to transform lives.

The good news for us today is the same for the invalid man laying by the Pool of Bethesda. Jesus keeps showing up and speaking a word into our lives. Get up Church! Take up your beds and start walking into your future.

Get up Church because the world needs your witness of the love of Jesus! Get up Church because the Freedom Church still has much work to do! Get up Church because we’re tired of laying on beds of complacency and lethargy!

Get up Church because we serve a Savior who tells the weary and lame to get up!

Get up Church because we follow Jesus who after they counted Him out and declared Him done, on the third day, He got up!

I have decided to follow Jesus; I have decided to follow Jesus; I have decided to follow Jesus;

No turning back, no turning back.

Though none go with me, I still will follow; though none go with me, I still will follow; though none go with me, I still will follow; No turning back, no turning back.

The world behind me, the cross before me; the world behind me, the cross before me; the world behind me, the cross before me;

No turning back, no turning back.

Respectfully submitted;

Your fellow servant of the Gospel,

Highlights of the sermon:

Text: Isaiah 6:1-5
Topic: The Impact of a Worship Encounter
Worship is an impactor. We are to leave here telling everyone I just had an encounter. For worship is our front-line weapon against the enemy. We can fight the enemy when we learn how to worship in spirit and truth.

1. We can see the presence of the Lord when we give more power to God than the things we are going.
2. We can feel the presence of the Lord when the glory comes in. God is getting ready to turn our woes to wows.
3. When the presence of the Lord comes in we can finally be purged. God has a way of taking areas of our life and turning them around for his Glory. So if you don’t shift you will never make it to where you are trying to go. You have to make a shift in the right direction. You have to make a shift when you are in the presence of God. Because God is getting ready to take, you to where you need to be. Following the message Rev. Dr. Darwin Little gave the invitation to Christian discipleship. The Finance Committee received the evening offering and it was blessed with the offertory.

“All Things Come of Thee, O Lord”
Following the announcements, Rev. Dr. Little gave the closing prayer and benediction.
